Things are changing at Moreton Show

The retirement of Moreton Show secretary Tim Gardner was marked at a drinks party hosted by the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of Moreton Show on Friday evening. Tim hands over to Andy Moran who takes up his position on March 16th, and members of the Show Society got the chance to meet Andy on the evening.

Andy, who currently lives near Windsor, has shows in his blood, his mother was an organiser and judge at Egham Royal Show. He has been a member of several shows, and a steward of horse classes, goats, pigs and Show Secretary of a horticultural show. He is currently Show Manager of a one day village show in Berkshire.

Andy has also been a weekend farmer, over the years rearing beef, sheep and pigs. He has shown his own horses, and competed. He is a keen sportsman and has run several clay shoots.

Andy comments "Having visited the Moreton Show a number of times over the years I have been impressed with high standards and quality exhibits. I have visited many shows in the UK, Europe and USA, Moreton is right up there with the top shows and I am very much looking forward to beginning work".

Tim said "I'm happy to handover to Andy of what promises to be an outstanding 2010 show."

Moreton Show will be held on Saturday 4th September 2010.
